

SO MUCH NEW THIS FALL AT THE CENTER

Including new courses, a new website, and new places to learn!

This Fall we welcome you to become a part of our vibrant learning community right here in Larchmont- Mamaroneck. The Center is a non-profit organization that has been offering classes for more than 80 years, and we are excited to bring you a new session of learning starting this September. Registration is open now, so browse our courses here and visit us at LMCCE.org to find out more. New classes will be opening up all season, so be sure to stay in touch. We hope to see you in class!

Scholarships are available, please contact us for information.

Fall 2023

FREE CLASS

REDUCE FOOD WASTE WITH DELICIOUS RECIPES FROM RENOWNED LOCAL CHEF ADAM KAYE

Join Adam Kaye, chef and co-founder of The Spare Food Co., and former Culinary Director at Blue Hill Restaurant, for a cooking demonstration that strives to solve the nagging question of what to do with those odds and ends in your fridge. Reducing food waste is one of the most effective ways that we can draw down carbon in the atmosphere and reverse the effects of climate change. Adam will demonstrate creative ways that we can all minimize waste while maximizing flavor in our kitchens. Offered in partnership with the Town of Mamaroneck Sustainability Collaborative, a volunteer committee that advises the Town on environmental issues.
